fast to make sure that you do not miss the dars.

This jamaat, is your jamaat. It can only flourish if you sacrifice your valuable time and hard earned money to support its activities. It will only be as successful as you want it to be.

We took an oath on the hand of the Amir of the jamaat to uphold virtue, to fight evil and, in general, to give preference to our religious values even when it means sacrifice and loss. To uphold that oath, we need to put Islamic values into practice in our own lives. We need to: not only say our salaat, fast during Ramadaan, give zakaat, and circumstances permitting, perform the Haj but also observe all other commandments of the Holy Quran. This is the purpose of these devotions. We need to speak the truth, be honest, show respect and consideration for others etc. To some, these are minor considerations. However, remember all commandments of the Holy Quran are equally important. To quote one instance, lying leads to mistrust and mistrust destroys nations. So remember these things. Empty prayers, those not accompanied by humility and honesty, are meaningless.
